

Why Neora?

In early 2017, a friend and fellow Let Your Yoga Dance® instructor mentioned the fulfilling personal development work she'd been doing with a team called Going Beyond Fear, Resistance, and Limitations. I was intrigued. I had been investing time, energy, and money in personal development work for many years and had not gotten the lasting results that I was looking for.

This friend invited me to join one of her team calls with author, speaker, humanitarian, and teacher Cheri Huber. After listening in on some of their team calls and speaking with Cheri, I knew that these were people I wanted to be around - open-hearted, curious to grow, compassionate, intelligent, and selfless in their genuine desire to help others and to make the world a better place. I loved their commitment to holistic wellness for themselves and others- mind, body, and heart. I learned that Neora is not only a community of people working toward bettering themselves and the world, but offered a range of wellness products and positive psychology practices to support people in their journeys.

Neora has transformed the holistic health industry internationally, with the best of science and nature streamlined products, clinically tested to deliver proven results. They focus on cutting through the clutter of healthy aging options to bring you multifunctional skincare products and novel nutritionals that address all aspects of wellness, and fit easily into your lifestyle, so you can look better, feel better and live better.

It is impossible to overstate how joining Neora in early 2017 has improved my life and my family's- which is why I love sharing my experience with others, in hopes that they may benefit in their own way. Not only have I found a community of people that have supported my personal and professional growth, but I have found relief from various health issues that deeply impacted my quality of life. Before Neora, I was a diagnosed conditioned insomniac and suffered from low energy and dry skin. Through using the Neora wellness and skin care products, I have been able to regain my fullest life, sleep well, and have happy, balanced skin.

All of that would have been enough, but the blessings continue with this beautiful community I get to be a part of, and the opportunities for personal and professional growth, development and loving connection. Witnessing my family and friends benefit from the wellness and skincare products that Neora has to offer has been another immeasurable gift.

I would love to help you discover the ways in which Neora can enhance your life as well. Find out more about our science and nature based holistic products, our philanthropy and positive psychology sister organization Live Happy, and our company culture and core values. Or email me with questions or to setup a time to chat!